Easter Displays of Boys' Suits Offer Every Advantage for Selection.

New Easter Suits show many features of special interest to the boys, and we urge upon them the necessity of coming in early with their parents to get the choicest selection. There is much satisfaction in choosing at the very beginning of the season, when every advantage possible is offered.

Norfolk predominates—every boy dressing according to late styles will wear a Norfolk. Single-breasted, cut loose or close-fitting, with regular or patch pockets, full-plaited, half-plaited, yoke models, and those without plait; full-belted, half-belted, and semi-belted. Enough variety in styles to suit every idea.

Range of fabrics and colorings and patterns just as interesting, and even broader than the variety of models. Plain blue serges, whipcord, and diagonal weaves; self and fancy striped blues; also grays, tans, browns, and mixtures in the usual fancy patterns, and many novelties. Colored mixtures are prominent; new and handsome designs. Sizes 8 to 18.

$5.00 to $12.50 the Suit.

SUITS FOR SMALLER BOYS—The regulation Sallor and Russian Blouse effects will be just as popular as ever for the little fellows from 2½ to 10 years of age. Blues and colored effects; quite a variety in the manner in which they are cut; excellent tailoring; plain and braided and trimmed styles. They are more worthy of attention than usual.

$5.00 to $8.00 the Suit.

New Blouse designs in blue and black with white stripes; smart striped blouses and blouses with white stripes; also blouses with white stripes and white stripes.

$1.50 to $5.00 each.

$1.50 to $5.00 each.

New Russian Dresses for Misses Wanting Modish Attire for Easter.

Russian Blouse effects are the leading note in Dresses for Easter, and the number of individuality and distinctiveness, together with the particularly handsome appearance, gives them a place that is well deserved.

Our special attention to the models we are showing is such that we are able to show the Russian effect, suggestive of the Russian style, which is full and loose, yet held very snugly about the waist. The Russian style has been slightly modified, with the result that they are more graceful.

The smart new combination, usually consist of one civil new dress, another of less striking appearance. Shown in Nell and black, blue, green, and brown, leather and open-work, and in a variety of styles.

Priced at $22.50 each.

Society

The President accompanied Mrs. Wilson in a motor trip about the city yesterday, despite the inclement weather.

The Misses Wilson went to the "dancing class" which met last night at the Playhouse. Mrs. Preston Gibson received the guests, who were the members of the class and a few additional out-of-town friends. Davis Orchestra furnished the music. A buffet supper was served at midnight, after which dancing was resumed.

Miss Jessie Wilson and Miss Eleanor Wilson were entertained at a luncheon by Dr. Grayson, U. S. N., at the Washington Country Club yesterday. Mrs. Howe and Mrs. Cochran chaperoned the party.

The Vice President and Mrs. Marshall were the guests of honor at a dinner last night given by Dr. and Mrs. Freeman-Smith, at their residence in Massachusetts Avenue.

The members of the Diplomatic Corps and their families were the guests yesterday at a brilliant reception given by the Vice President and Mrs. Marshall. The handsome ballroom of the Shoreham was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

Mrs. Marshall wore a charming costume of pink chiffon, embroidered in gold and trimmed with narrow bands of fur and Chantilly lace.

Refreshments were served throughout the afternoon at a handsomely appointed table.

Mr. Chandler Hale, Third Assistant Secretary of State, made the introductions to the Vice President and Mrs. Marshall.

It was one of the smartest gatherings of this season, as all the diplomats at present in the city attended the reception.

Senator and Mrs. Newlands gave a dinner last night in honor of the Secretary of State and Mrs. Bryan.

Mrs. Arthur Lee presided at the last of the Friday afternoon " teas" at the Riding and Hunt Club. These teas were organized by the hosts, committee of the club, among whom are Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, Mrs. W. Sinclair Bowen, Mrs. Richard Harlow, and Mrs. Cary Langhorne. They have been very popular, and yesterday many members of the club were present about the prettily appointed table.

Miss Edna Tyler was the guest of honor at a bridge party yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert R. Taylor, at her apartment at the Cordova. Additional guests were invited to the tea which followed the bridge.

Mrs. and Mr. Ernest Howe, of Newport, R. I., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hague.

Mrs. Charles McChesney was hostess at a delightful tea yesterday afternoon at the New Willard in honor of Mrs. J. T. Francis, of St. Louis, and Mrs. Carl Vrooman. Miss McChesney assisted her mother, as did a number of young society women.

Mrs. Z. T. Somers gave a large reception yesterday in compliment to her daughter-in-law, Mrs. William Somers, whose marriage to her son took place on New Year's Day. The handsome home of Dr. and Mrs. Z. T. Somers was thronged with members of Washington official and residential society.

PRESENT-DAY POWER OF ANGLICAN CHURCH

Rev. Edmund Seyzinger Gives Lecture in Columbia Theater Before Large Audience.

The fifth and concluding lecture of a series given by the Rev. Edmund Seyzinger, of the Community of the Resurrection, Methodist, England, on the comparative doctrine of the Anglican Church, was delivered yesterday afternoon at the Columbia Theater.

Owing to the enforced omission of the fourth lecture of the series, Rev. Seyzinger combined the fourth and fifth lectures and lectured on the authority of the Anglican Church and upon church life in social life and their practical outcome. The lecture yesterday was divided into three parts—the Oxford movement, the revival of the religious life in England and America, and the doctrinal literature of the Anglo-Catholic Church, and the important place of American writers.

Rev. Seyzinger made a comparison of the position of the church of today with that of 100 years ago. He emphasized the revival of the religious life in the church, their place and importance. The activities and reviving place of religious communities, he asserted, were in England and America. He dwelt particularly upon the religious communities in America, the mission of the American church, and the general progress of the church in this country.

The Washington committee which had charge of the lectures consisted of Mrs. William Crovan Smith, Mrs. Henry White, Miss Gwynn, Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge, Mrs. E. Rollins Morse, Mrs. Richard Muliken, Mrs. William Rivers, Mrs. George Vanderbilt, and Miss Maude Wetmore.

MAJ. RHOADS RETAINED.

White House Aid Will Remain with President.

Maj. T. L. Rhoads, who succeeded Maj. Archibald W. Rorty as personal and military aid to President Taft, will be retained in that capacity under President Wilson, it was announced at the White House yesterday.

It is understood, however, that Maj. Rhoads will not accompany the President on trips away from Washington, because the Chief Executive does not consider the presence of a military aid necessary.

Maj. Rhoads has been instructed to commence the work of reorganization of the White House aids so that the number may be decreased from sixteen to eight, even at the most pretentious of the state functions.

State's Finances in Tangle.

Montgomery, Ala., March 14.—An extra session of the Alabama Legislature will have to be held to straighten out the State's financial tangle resulting from the alleged shortage of $50,000 in the accounts of Theodore Lacey, the missing chief clerk of the State court department, according to statements here. Gov. O'Neal today offered a reward of $2,000 for the capture of Lacey, for whom a warrant charging him with embezzlement has been issued. The discovery of the shortage has greatly distressed the Governor.

MISS LATHROP SPEAKS TO SOCIAL WORKERS

Head of Children's Bureau Outlines Work Done During Existence of Department.

DR. A. J. McKELWAY LECTURES

Special to The Washington Herald.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 14.—Miss Julia Lathrop, chief of the Federal Children's Bureau, at the annual meeting of the National Child Labor Committee, held in the Board of Trade Auditorium, to-night outlined the work and progress of the children's bureau during the first six months of its existence.

Miss Lathrop spoke of the difficulty of filling the staff of the bureau with competent workers on the $30,000 annual appropriation allowed by the government. She said in part:

"The steadily widening scope of the inquiries which come to the bureau compel it to act as a clearing house and center of information. Among the subjects enlisted popular interest are juvenile courts, the best forms of legislation affecting children, the care of young children, birth registration, child labor, and the world-wide interest in the most question of mothers' pensions. The work of keeping informed through the current literature of the world as to the general progress of movements affecting children in this country and abroad is the function of the librarian-translator, who fills a position created especially to fit the needs of this bureau, and who is an expert with ten years of training in the Library of Congress."

"While the bureau has published nothing as yet upon mothers' pensions, it is assembling and digesting the current literature in this country and abroad on the subject in answer to constant inquiry."

"The hygiene and care of infants and children are subjects of a projected series of pamphlets, the first of which is now ready for the printer. This series is in charge of a university woman, herself the mother of five children."

"It is interesting to note that many of the most current inquiries as to the care of babies come from devoted fathers. One young father of a week-old son wrote the other day offering to exchange his child for the development of his baby if the bureau would send him the necessary score card."

Other speakers were Dr. A. J. McKelway, Southern secretary of national child labor committee, on "Child Wages in the Cotton Mill; Our Modern Feudalism"; Lewis W. Hine, New York City, "Shirking and (Overt) Child Labor"; Frank O'Hara, professor of economics, Catholic University, Washington, on "Family Solidarity"; Bryn Payne, president George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn., on "Education and the Working Child"; John A. Kingsbury, New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, on "Child Labor and Poverty: Both Cause and Effect."

CAVALIERI TO WED AGAIN.

Divine Prepares to Become Wife of Lucien Muratore.

Detroit, Mich., March 14.—Lucien Cavaleri, the world-famous diva, is to be married in Detroit on April 25 to Lucien Muratore, leading tenor of the Paris Grand Opera Company, with whom she has been touring the United States. Notes to make suitable arrangements for the ceremony was received today by her advance manager in Detroit.

Since the divorce of Mme. Cavaleri from ex-Sheriff Bob Quaker, numerous rumors of new matrimonial alliances have been abroad, one connecting her name with that of William K. Vanderbilt and the last one with Muratore, with whom she sailed for this country in February. Within a week after they landed they were reported married, but at that time denied even an engagement. The telegram to her manager, however, makes it look like a sure thing this time.
